

As a country home, Kiplin Hall became self-sufficient. The four families of Kiplin enjoyed their food from garden fork to dinner plate. Fruit and vegetables were grown in the walled garden and glass houses nearby. A home farm with dairy cows provided cream and milk.

Explore the range of ingredients that were grown and eaten at Kiplin Hall.